

Final master plan for the floating City of Mount Vema developments unveiled

September 22, 2021 – As works on the City of Mount Vema gains momentum and starts to move from the drawing boards to field works for the prefabricated structures for Mount Vema, the Ministry of National Development and Land Maintenance has unveiled the final master plan of the floating city.

“That’s it”. A source told VSBCnews. “We’re ready”. According to multiple sources familiar with the plans, there may be some changes along the way but, will be minor changes. The master plan has been approved and it is now final.

What will follow is the organization and coordination of global logistics, and more detail urban district plans which will be published regularly as a guide to make it easier for investors to locate their City of Mount Vema off-plan properties, and help project coordinators, engineers, 3D designers, and architects working on 1000s of City of Mount Vema individual projects such as specific buildings, to better visualize their work.

